MY PHILOSOPHY. Bright things can never die, E'en though they fade; Beauty and minstrelsy Deathless were made; What though the summer day Passes at eve away, Doth not the moon's soft ray Silence the night? Bright things can never die, Saith my philosophy ; Phoebus, though he pass by, Leaves us the light.

Kind words can never die, Cherished and blest; God knows how deep they lie Stored in the breast : Like childhood's simple rhymes, Said o'er a thousand times, Aye, in all years and climes, Distant and near. Kinds words can never die, Saith my philosophy ; Deep in the soul they lie,

Childhood can never die .-Wrecks of the past Float on the memory E'en to the last. Many a happy thing, Many a daisied spring, Flow, on Time's ceaseless wing, Far, far away ; Childhood can never die, Saith my philosophy; Wrecks of our infancy

Live on for aye.

God knows how dear.

Sweet fancies never die ; They leave behind Some fairy legacy Stored in the mind,-Some happy thought or dream, Pure as day's earliest beam, Kissing the gentle stream, In the lone glade. Yet, though these things pass by, Saith my philosophy, Bright things can never die, E'en though they fade.

SONGS IN THE NIGHT. When courting alumber, The hours I number, And sad cares comber My wearied mind, This thought shall cheer me, That they art near me, Whose our to hear me is still inclined.

My soul Than keepest, Who never sleepest, Mid gloom the deepest There's light above. Thine eyes behold me, Thine arms enfold me. Thy word has told me That God is love.

The Baltimore Gazette relates the interview of the delegation of Bellimore Indies with the president, on the occasion of their presenting a petition, signed by 15,000 ladies of that city, for the unconditional pardon of the late rehel chief magistrate. The petition was presented by Mrs. Coleman, daughter of John J. Crittenden. The Gazette says:

"The conduct of Mr. Johnson was courteen in the extreme. He listened with marked attention and hesitated for some moments before he made a reply. Finally he said :

"That he regretted more than he knew how to express that he could not grant the petition, and that it would give him for more pleasure to accede to the request of the ladies present than it would give them to have it and continuers, and the juddle general by granted. 'If,' added he, 'it were simply a ty that he has sen continuers and the juddle general by that he has sen continuers and and in juddle juddle general by the has sen continuers in the juddle general by the property of the pro granted. 'If,' added he, 'it were simply question, however, between man and man, I would release Mr. Davis, at once; but it is great national question. Mighty issue might be involved, and now is the time to take such a step. I think, continued the president. I have the courage, or as you term it, ladies, 'pluck,' to do my duty, and have proved it. When the proper time comes for the exercise of magnanimity, I trust that I shall not be found wanting."

"In reference to the trial of Mr. Davis, Mr. Johnson said :

"Almost every arrangement has been made for the trial of Mr. Davis, but no one can tell what changes may be brought about in the course of a few weeks. A hasty and injudicious action in this matter might produce incalculable misery. Mr. Davis has been a great leader in the war against the government, and it is but right he should be tried by the laws of the land. I sympathiz with him in his sufferings. His quarters have been changed and his condition amelio

"In conclusion Mr. Johnson said :

" 'All men, ladies, are under the influence of woman, and I not less than other men You are my jewels. I want your help and your prayers."

"No knight of old," said one of the ladies. "could have been more courtly in his defer ence nor more gentle in his refusal. The committee left, deeply impressed with the earnestness of Mr. Johnson, and convinced of his kindly feelings and good faith."

The violet was the national flower of Athens; which city, personified by acceptant and painters, was represented as a majestifemale wearing a wreath of violete. The Ro mans crowned their domestic gods, the Lares, with violets, and used the flowers to perfuse their wines. From these circumstances the emblem was shoren by the French be two Departments, the Primary and the Collegiste.

Applicants will be admitted into the Primary Department without examination, at any age. Admission into any of the classes of the Collegate Department, or promotion from one to another, will be granted to such only, as sustain an examination on the atudes which precede it. Those who complete the whole course satisfactorily will receive, at its close, a diploma.

For the government of the young ladies, but one "rile" will be established, viz.: that they shall as all times conduct themselves as becomes the daughters of gentlemen; and the enforcement of this regulation will be the spenial day of Mrs. Johnstone. Visitors to the pupils must present letters of introduction from parents or guardians to the Principal. No visits should be made on Sunday, or during school hours.

Each pupil is requested to furnish her own fork, spaon, towels and Lapkina, and to have these, as also her clothing, marked with her name in full. Daily instruction in plain sewing will be afforded such as desire it, without extra charge.

Parents who prefer their children should not study our religious text-books, are requested to notify the principal, and they will have their wisher respected.
